ACTIVITY: Read the story about an investigation. Who do you think committed the crime?

Detective Wayne: Good morning, mister Rogers. What were you doing at 2 am on Sunday night?

Suspect Rogers: Good morning, detective. I was waiting for my favorite TV program, sir.

Detective Wayne: Who were you with?

Suspect Rogers: I was with my wife, Sharon.

Detective Wayne: Yes, Sharon told us she fell asleep at 1:30 am.

Suspect Rogers: Yes, sir. While we were watching TV, she started to snore. That's when I knew she had fallen asleep.

Detective Wayne: Your neighbor Philip saw you through his window at 2:10 a.m. He said you were running in the street.

Suspect Rogers: He is telling a lie, sir. He loves a good gossip. He is used to spreading fake information.

Detective Wayne: Nevertheless, some security cameras confirmed that. Did you understand? Confirmed his story. You were outside on Sunday night. Why did you lie to me?

Suspect Rogers: Ah well, I just took the trash out, sir. Nothing much.

Detective Wayne: Nothing much? Somebody killed Mrs. Carter while she was getting home. I'm starting to think that was you.

Suspect Rogers: No, it was not. I swear to God!

Detective Wayne: Also, did you see Mrs. Carter when you took the trash out?

Suspect Rogers: Yes, I did. In fact, she was arguing with a man who was very similar to our neighbor Philip.

Detective Wayne: Why were they arguing?

Suspect Rogers: The man was angry at her, because according to the man, Mrs. Carter cheated on him.

Detective Wayne: Did you hear gun shots?

Suspect Rogers: Yes, sir. I did.

How do you think this story will turn out?

Who might have killed Mrs. Carter?

Detective Wayne: Aha! I knew you were telling lie! Mrs. Carter was stabbed! She had stab wounds all over her torso. Let me tell you what happened, you lying bastard! You were in love with Mrs. Carter. But she had a steady relationship with another man. You were very jealous of her. So, after your wife had slept, you went out and stabbed her, and then dragged her dead corpse to the forest for the wild animals to feast upon it and destroy any remaining evidence!

Suspect Rogers: Please, I am begging you. Don't put me in prison. What I did, I did for love!

Detective Wayne: You are evil. And stupid. You deserve what's coming. Guards! Take him!
