Company Management Questionnaire

Designed for In-Depth Discussion

Section 1: Leadership & Vision

1. Describe your personal leadership style. How would you adapt it when managing a company with 10 employees versus 500 employees? Give concrete examples of situations where your style would change.
2. What does “company vision” really mean in practice? How would you create, communicate, and keep a vision alive when the company faces major challenges like economic downturns or internal conflicts?
3. How do you make difficult strategic decisions when data is incomplete or conflicting opinions exist among your team? Walk us through your decision-making process with a real or hypothetical example.

Section 2: Team & People Management

1. How would you build and maintain a strong company culture from day one? What specific practices, rituals, or policies would you implement, and how would you handle it when someone (even a top performer) doesn't fit the culture?
2. Describe your approach to hiring. What questions would you ask in interviews? How do you evaluate not just skills but also potential, attitude, and long-term fit?
3. How should a manager handle underperformance? Outline a step-by-step process, including when you would choose coaching versus letting someone go.
4. What strategies would you use to motivate employees during periods of high stress, rapid growth, or after a major setback? Include both monetary and non-monetary approaches.

Section 3: Strategy & Operations

1. How do you set company goals and ensure they are actually achieved? Explain how you would use OKRs, KPIs, or other frameworks, and how you track progress without micromanaging.
2. Describe how you would manage operations in a growing company. What systems and processes would you put in place to avoid chaos as the company scales?

3. How would you handle competition? Give examples of competitive strategies (cost leadership, differentiation, niche focus, etc.) and discuss when each might be most appropriate.

Section 4: Finance & Sustainability

1. Explain how you would manage cash flow and budgeting in the first three years of a startup. What financial mistakes do many new managers make, and how would you avoid them?
2. How important is profitability versus growth? Describe a situation where you might deliberately choose one over the other and why.
3. What role does sustainability (environmental, social, governance) play in modern company management? How would you balance it with profit goals?

Section 5: Marketing, Innovation & Risk

1. How would you build and maintain strong customer relationships? What would your customer service and feedback systems look like?
2. Describe how you foster innovation within a company. How do you encourage employees to take risks while still maintaining control and accountability?

3. What are the biggest risks a company faces today (technological disruption, cybersecurity, talent shortage, etc.)? Choose two and explain how you would proactively manage them.

Section 6: Personal Reflection & Scenarios

1. Tell us about a real company (or a case study) whose management you admire. What specific practices make them successful, and how would you apply those lessons?
 2. Imagine your company suddenly loses its biggest client (40% of revenue). Walk us through exactly how you would respond in the first 30 days, then in the following months.
 3. How do you manage your own time and energy as a leader? What systems do you use to avoid burnout while still being available to your team?
 4. Looking ahead 5–10 years, what do you believe will be the biggest changes in how companies are managed? How are you preparing yourself for those changes?
