Today, I went to the market. I wanted to buy some fruits and vegetables. At the market, there are a lot of stalls. Each stall has a lot of different things to sell. I was really excited to see what I could find.

5 First, I found a stall that sells apples and oranges. The seller said, “These apples are really fresh, and they are a bit sweet.” I thought the apples looked quite good. I decided to buy a lot of apples. I told the seller, “I would like to buy ten apples, please.” The seller smiled and said, “That will be
10 a bit expensive, but they are quite tasty!”

Next, I walked to a stall that sells vegetables. The seller spoke to me and said, “Do you want to buy some lettuce? We have a lot of fresh lettuce today!” I said, “Yes, I want to buy a bit of lettuce.” I also wanted to buy some 15 tomatoes. The seller told me that the tomatoes were a bit soft, so I decided not to buy them.

After that, I went to a stall that sells flowers. The flowers are really beautiful, and I wanted to buy some for my home. I said to the seller, “How much are these flowers?”

20 The seller replied, “They are quite cheap today, and we have a lot of different colors.” I decided to buy a few flowers.

When I finished shopping, I had a lot of fruits and vegetables. I felt really happy with my purchases. I talked to my friend on the phone and told her about my day. I said, “I 25 bought a lot of fresh fruits and vegetables, and it was a bit fun shopping at the market!”

In the end, I went home with my bags full of goodies. I was quite satisfied with my shopping trip. I thought it was a great sale day!
